

Portrayals of Our Evolving Society (sujet 32)

(in films/TV series or novels/plays) Blanaid Rensch

For this research paper, students will explore more traditional vs. modern portrayals of our evolving society as shown in films/TV series or novels/plays.

Here are a few examples of potential research:

Police: From peacekeeping hero to questionable tactician...

Teacher/School/Education: From conventional, top-down to creative, co-participative...

Family/Society/Relationships: From traditional to modern...

Other subjects may include the changing image of children, students, dystopias, the future, the mentally disabled, people with special needs, illness, the specially or highly gifted, the world of sport, racism, multi-ethnicity, difference, gangs, the army, women, mothers, fathers, the world of business, wealth, unemployment... the choice is quite simply vast! 😊

Minimum requirement: Students must have an average grade in English of 4.5.
